

Time for reminders

 conservativenewsandviews.com/2016/08/24/accountability/executive/time-reminders/

8/24/2016

Hillary Clinton's nomination for President may be more attributable to America's short-term memory loss than her political savvy. The former Secretary of State has a long list of violations against truth and morality that extend back to her days in the Warren Commission. But like her husband's well-known philandering prior to his election, America seems oblivious to the Clintons' moral depravity. Therefore, a few reminders to be in order, but since the list is so extensive, only the actions of the charming Bill and Hillary at the beginning of Bill's administration will be addressed.

Reminders: first days of Bill Clinton

William Jefferson Clinton was inaugurated on January 20, 1993. On January 22, 1993, he used executive action (his pen) to abolish restrictions on medical research and the right to choose – a clever euphemism for the legal right granted to expectant mothers to kill their unborn children. Clinton's action prohibited abortion counseling in federally funded clinics. He also revoked restrictions on privately funded abortion services in military hospitals, and allowed fetal tissue research. The latter predictably led to the sale of baby parts, which recently involved Planned Parenthood, who reported they were responsible for 327,166 abortions in 2012 out of the 699,202 reported nationally.

In February 1993, William Jefferson Clinton overturned Reagan's and Bush's restrictions on abortion. Not to leave any stone unturned, Clinton also revoked restrictions on the morning after pill, known as RU 486. Between his inauguration on January 20th and February of 1993, it can be effectively argued that Bill Clinton quickly earned the distinction of being the biggest baby killer in all of human history. Today his wife, presidential candidate Hillary Clinton, is committed to carrying on his abhorrent legacy of death.

Also in February of 1993, President Clinton appointed Hillary Rodham Clinton to head the Task Force on National Healthcare. At that time it was known as HillaryCare, which failed to pass Congress after much protest by the voters. However, for those who are opposed to ObamaCare, it should be noted that this program was initiated and designed by HRC. For those who still oppose national healthcare, another President Clinton will not be your champion. In the same month, Clinton raised taxes and proposed a $30,000,000,000 stimulus program.

Reminders: the Waco burn-out

In April of 1993, the Waco disaster took the lives of 86 men, women, and children through the use of military tactics against civilians. Janet Reno took the fall, but it was Bill Clinton that sat behind the big desk in the Oval office. Should HRC succeed in abolishing the Second Amendment, incidents such as this can be expected on a regular basis.

In June of 1993, it was Bill Clinton that escalated the tensions between Iraq and the US by launching cruise missile strikes against Baghdad. A few years later, he conducted additional attacks. And we all should know that Senator Hillary Clinton voted in favor of the Iraqi War. Once again, the Clintons' political ideologies are in harmony.

Easy Plugin for AdSense by Unreal

In December of 1993, Clinton signed NAFTA, which Donald Trump has described as one of the worst trade agreements the world has ever known, and which has resulted in the loss of America's manufacturing jobs and the decline of many industries, i.e. the auto industry, the clothes manufacturing industry, the electronics industry, and the steel industry – just to name a few. The next year he followed up by signing a global trade agreement with the World Trade Organization. Hillary supports NAFTA, CAFTA, and also supports TPP, which will do to the Agricultural industry the same as NAFTA and CAFTA did to manufacturing.

Reminders: Common Core, the crash, etc.

It should also be noted that in 1994, Clinton enacted Goals 2000 Education Standards, which has morphed into Common Core. Since government has begun interfering in local education, our academic standards have dropped from an untouchable #1 worldwide to #30 – and that's out of the 30 nations that are tested. It is not uncommon in urban districts today to graduate from high school based on attendance and not academic standards. Not only can't many of these graduates read, they can't do simple math.

Of course there is more that can be said about President Clinton's increased regulations on the 1977 Community Reinvestment Act and the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act that repealed the Glass-Steagall Act – all of which were major contributors to the housing bubble that exploded in the Bush years. But it was Bill Clinton that loosened housing rules and pressured federally insured banks to lend to low-income mortgagees. In order to comply with these new regulations, banks began to lend more money to more people for more expensive homes with little or no money down. Eventually, low-to-no-income documentation loans were born, and before it all came to a head, record high foreclosures became a normal course of business and the American people had to bail out the banks that were deemed "too big to fail."

Sure you want another Clinton?

Since all of the above have resulted in major negative repercussions for our nation, electing President Clinton's partner and right hand counselor, Hillary Rodham Clinton, should send shivers up and down our spines. For many, Donald Trump may be an unknown. But what we know about Hillary and her co-conspirator husband, should make an informed American cast their vote for Anyone But Clinton. For the rest of us – those who remember the havoc the greedy Clintons have wreaked upon this nation – we need to start sending some reminders.

It is often said that those that don't learn from history are doomed to repeat it. In our case, if we don't learn from history we are doomed. Whether it be life issues, the destruction of America's manufacturing industries, national healthcare, government handouts, government-regulated education, bailouts, slaughtering the innocent on the altar of convenience, or the ordering of military forces against civilians, one Clinton in the White House is one Clinton too many.

A reprint from The Daily Rant, copyright 2016 Mychal Massie, by permission.

Fallston: She Makes $77/hour At Home

Local mom turns $97 into $8000/month. Here is her secret.

www.Best-Home-Jobs.net

